of Miss Cochrane's persistent refusal

RIGHTS.

chattels, there for Mark Hanna; because they eat the political grub set before them, and ask no questions for conscience sake or any other sake.

Partisan Fraud.
"Now, I ask, which of these two utterly inconsistent and irreconcilable planks of the Ohio Republican platform will Mr. Roosevelt and his fellow reformers stand upon? They cannot advocate both, nor either without denouncing the other. The two are distinctive of each other, they eat each other up. And their adoption in the same declaration of so-called "principles" is a monumental exhibition of partisan juggling, hypocrisy and fraud.

"These are only a little segments cut out from the Republican policy, as demonstrated and the rest are like unto them. I am for anything else. There are others equally inconsistent, equally betraying the rights of the people—the masses of the American citizens. Our great grievance has been, and it is to be imputed in some measure to both political parties in the past, that ever since our Civil war the trend of legislation, the drift of legislation, has been in the interests of the few and against the welfare of the many.

Most laws that were passed were for the benefit of those who had property rights, unless they occasionally passed a law for the sake of buncombe or something of that kind.
The Declaration of Independence is what I stand upon, and what I am glad to say, the Democratic party of Ohio and through the United States today stand upon, and it is for the people of the United States to say they will have that to stand upon in 1900, and from that on.

Three Distinct Purposes.
"Now, to what end are all shortcomings of the Republican party—the present administration? There are three distinct purposes in my judgment which it proposes to itself.
The first and main one is the renomination and reelection of Mr. Mc-Kinley. Everything will be made to bend to that. Every appointment is made with a view to that. Every policy is adopted and carried out with reference to that. Subsidiary to that, there is the object of allowing the trusts and the people who have the ear of the administration, the so-called people of influence, to exploit the resources of the Philippine islands in our possession for their own profit. They will introduce trusts there, as they introduce them here, and will industrially oppressive people there in the husbanding of their resources, as they have done here. And the next is that they may ultimately enter into an alliance with Great Britain. And the last is that by so augmenting our national debt by increased expenditures and consequent issues of bonds we shall at last become a people of bondholders and bond-payers, a leisure class and a producing class. This means industrial slavery. I do not have time and do not need to discuss these questions with you, but they are, each and all, purposes which every patriot ought to oppose to the best of his ability, by heart and vote and influence so far as he can extend it and make it operative.

Trusts Only Are Prosperous.
"There is, it is said by our adversaries, a complete answer to all we said in 1896, in the abounding prosperity which we see around us. The time was not a great while ago when all prosperity—the rising and the setting of the sun, the falling of the gentle dews of heaven, the earlier and the latter rains, and the harvests which the Good Father sent upon the earth, were attributed to a high tariff. And I don't know of anyone except Mr. Frank Myers who attributes everything to the tariff, and believes that even tin plate can spring out of the ground if we have the right sort of taxes saddled upon us. But now all these blessings of our Heavenly Father are attributed to Mark Hanna, or his man, his alter ego, the present occupant of the White House. I call you to witness that the people of the United States are under obligations to their Father which is in Heaven, in the course of nature, for rain and for dew, for crops, for harvests, and not to Mark Hanna nor to his servant. Whatever there is to that, either in our prosperity or in the misfortune of other nations which were forced to come to us for their supply of foods, whatever there is in that, ought to have no credit given for it to the Republican party. But is there that prosperity of which they boast? Undoubtedly there is prosperity in this country, much greater than in 1896, but prosperity to whom? Is it to the producers of wealth? Not by any means, not in proportion with the part they do in making that wealth.

The man who holds watered stock in trusts is prosperous, the leisure class is prosperous, but other men if their wages have been increased it hasn't been in proportion to their output, their increase in their effort, or their efficiency in the product of industry, but because it has been wrung, twisted from those who pay them their wages, rather than go without their labor.

An Organized Snear.
"I had occasion, last week, to spend a few days among the Northwestern lakes, stopping at various places, and I was surprised to see that, almost without exception, the people who were there were the people who were prosperous, who were enjoying their outings, with good things all about them to eat and drink and wear; that almost exclusively they were of people who do nothing toward producing the resources of the country, and almost wholly, nearly without exception, and they were in favor of the present administration and the Republican party. Their conversation seemed to be an organized sneer against those people who are unable to have the same extravagances and comforts and conveniences of life which they have.

Class Against Class.
"No man is less liable than I to understand to set class against class. It ought not to be by any well wisher to his country, but when we see men who are themselves setting class against class, monopolizing and absorbing the usufruct of labor of the country, and either wasting it selfishly, ostentatiously flaunting their unearned wealth in vulgar, shoddylike, displays in the face of honest industry and honorable poverty, applying it to the wrong purposes, and not allowing those who earn the greater proportion of it there propo-riate share of it, there is in all this something which ought to furnish food for serious thought in the heart of every man who wishes well to his country.

"If it is said that our apparent prosperity is due to an increase in the volume of our circulating medium and that money is going begging for borrowers at 3 per cent., then I answer that a low rate of interest is a certain evidence that money cannot profitably be invested in legitimate industrial channels, and the increase in the amount of money in circulation gives us the argument of 1896.
It is an increase under a single standard, because abundant, how much more could we abound under a double standard and a larger increase?

"Two hundred years ago when Louis XIV was contriving to enslave the whole of Europe, something was said about the State, speaking of France, he said this: 'The State? It is I, I am the State.' So this people ar-rogate to themselves the ownership of the State. And at the election of 1896, as we all saw, they said, can we control and monopolize the United States? But when Louis XIV used that expression, he was unwittingly, but none the less wickedly, laying the foundation for a terrible state of things, which occurred one hundred years later, when both the prosperity and the nobility of France went down in a sea of blood, or up in a sea of flame.

Food For Reflection.
"I have been a student of history all my life, and I have tried within my own mind to profit by its examples; and I must confess that notwithstanding this prosperity around us, and in the midst of this abundant, there is food for reflection as to what may come upon us. Crops will not always be good, money will not always be plenty, yet those who are used to extravagant expenditures will insist on having them, and some kind of explosion must follow, and it behooves the plain common people, by their votes, to avert that if possible.

Representative Men.
"Will your votes be cast wisely, patriotically, for men who are representing the interests of the people and for no one else? I trust that the delegates to the State convention will be guided by these motives, that they will carry them into effect in whatever ticket they may nominate and I hope you will be equally wise as to county offices. The Republican county ticket has many weak spots, and it is our duty to vote enough to carry the whole ticket down. Setting aside any past differences of opinion, any discussion about names, let us join altogether, from this time forward, by our votes, by our influence, and by every power that is within us, to do what we can for the welfare and uplifting of the masses of the American people. At the present time, in my judgment, this can be done in no way so well as supporting the Democratic party, but call it by what party name you will, I don't care, if it is the principle for which I contend, the Democratic party now embodies and enforces.

"Gentlemen, I thank you again for the confidence which your resolution has reposed in me, and for such a thing should happen upon which I do not count very reliably, that I shall be nominated, and, if a still stranger thing should happen that I should be elected, I will endeavor to perform the duties of the office for which you have seen fit to mention my name to the best of my ability.
That is all I can do, and again I thank you."

SUMMER THE TIME TO CURE CATARRH, HAY FEVER, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS AND DEAFNESS.

If Dr. Ramsey were asked what medical teaching would accomplish the greatest good he would undoubtedly say: The lesson to those with enfeebled constitutions, weak lungs, or a tendency to Bronchial Trouble or Consumption, of the vital importance of the summer months.
The best teaching is the teaching that will save the most lives.

This lesson to those with the slightest predisposition to Consumption will save more lives than any that could be taught.
In the summer Catarrh may be more speedily cured with nature helping the work, the result is more certain; after the cure, the constitution resumes its normal condition more quickly; those so feeble that they should not even expose themselves to the weather during the winter may visit the offices, and are helped in the progress of treatment, rather than injured, by exposure to our door air.

This is what the opportunity of the summer months means.

Indeed, with many of the more serious cases—where long-neglected Catarrhal diseases involving the Bronchial Tubes, which convey the air to the lungs, has taken its final advance into the tissues of the lungs themselves, has reached the end of the road lined with the mucous membrane upon which it lives and feeds, and finding no new tissue, settles down to feed upon the lung tissue—with many of these cases treatment during the spring and summer months is the only hope. Late, if any help can be derived from the winter months.
It is then during the summer that Catarrh in its early stages, involving maybe the nasal passages and throat and vocal cords and windpipe, may be most speedily cured, and the danger of its extension into the deeper part of the Bronchial Tubes or Lungs averted.

It is then only during the summer months that those more desperate cases involving the lungs themselves may be treated with any hope.
So there is abundant reason for dwelling upon this matter.

GENERAL VIEW OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS.

A—Epiglottis: Nature's sentinel, preventing entrance of Bronchial Tubes against invasion of foreign matter; against watery solutions and plainly against ignorant and harmful methods of treatment.

B—Vocal Cords: the gateway which guards the passage to the Lung Tissues.

C—Windpipe: to which disease, if neglected, extends passing down from the Vocal Cords and Glottis along the Trachea.

D—Bronchial Tubes; which convey the air from the windpipe to the lungs.

E—Indicates ulcers formed in lung cells after disease, too long neglected, has extended through the Bronchial Tubes.

F—Cavities formed by ulcers eating into lung tissues.

BRONCHIAL CATARRH CURED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lowery, corner Main and Howard sts., Akron, O.: Three years ago I had Pneumonia, which left me with a severe Bronchial trouble. The pain in my chest at times was intense. I had paroxysms of coughing which left me almost exhausted.
My sleep at night was constantly disturbed.
My friends all thought I had consumption, and I feared so myself. I became so weak that I could attend to scarcely any of my household duties. When I had about given up all hopes of ever recovering my health, I was persuaded to go to Dr. Ramsey. The first month's treatment brought an improvement. This gave me courage and I followed the treatment up faithfully and today I am a well woman. I have no more cough or difficulty in breathing, I sleep well and awake refreshed. My appetite is good and my strength has returned.

If you live at a distance write for sympom blank for home treatment.

Consultation and Examination Free.
Treatment and Medicines Reasonable.

Union's Resolution.

Bond of Homer Berger

The Resignation of C. H. Underwood Accepted.

Annual Report of Prof. Thomas—Proceedings.

The matter of having the union label placed on all printing was again discussed at the School Board meeting Tuesday evening.

J. Mahony presented a resolution in behalf of the Central Labor Union and Allied Printing Trades Council asking that the Board use all printing possible bearing the union label.

Edwin Myers, who is a non-union printer, protested vigorously against the passage of such a resolution. The legality of the resolution was brought up and various members of the board, especially Messrs. Otis, Slabaugh and Gibbons spoke on the matter. Mr. Slabaugh declared he could not conscientiously vote for it, claiming it illegal. J. W. Geary spoke for the Central Labor Union.

Mr. Otis moved that the resolution be referred to the committee on supplies to report at the next meeting.
It was voted down. The vote follows: Ayes—Otis, Slabaugh, Diehm, Reed, Nays—Millikin, Kelley Hartzell, Gibbons, Talcott. A motion to pass the resolution was also lost.

The vote was: Ayes—Millikin, Harzell, Gibbons, Talcott. Nays—Otis, Slabaugh, Kelly, Diehm, Reed.

W. E. Slabaugh was made chairman in the absence of President C.
T. Inman. Other members absent were C. B. Raymond and F. G.
Freese.

Resignation Accepted.
